Supervisor Parker advised of an excellent op-ed piece, written by Mayor Bruce Delgado, that appeared on December 4th in the San Francisco Chronicle about the statewide significance of the Cal Am slant wells and how they relates to the seawater intrusion and the overdraft in the Salinas Valley Basin.

Supervisor Alejo thanked the public and staff and wished them Merry Christmas and Happy New Year. He thanked those that attended his holiday open house. He holds events at least twice a year to celebrate key moments throughout the year with his constituents.

Supervisor Alejo thanked local playwright and Alisal High graduate, Luis Chago Juarez, as well as the performers and artists involved in the recent production. He and Supervisors Salinas attended on the last performance. It was a beautiful example of community theater, with an inter-generational group of actors, who conveyed through this holiday play a message about the struggles, triumphs, sorrows of families, and hopes for the future of young people of Salinas. It instilled a sense of community pride. He commended community members committed to making a difference.

Supervisor Salinas added his comments about the local play and commended the playwright and performers for the truly inspiring production. He wished County staff and the community Happy Holidays.

Supervisor Adams thanked everyone for paying attention, commenting that the only way to have good governance is with the public's participation.
