

A retreat for white race identity people to examine racial dominance and how it plays out in our day-to-day lives; to understand the historical basis and continuing reinforcement of structural racism; to identify opportunities and commit to action to end racism; and to redefine our sense of what it means to be human.

Facilitated by Joyce Shabazz, Director, NCBI International Affinity Group Work, and Director, Black African Heritage Affinity Group; and Sue Parris, Director, NCBI Monterey County and Director, NCBI International European Heritage White Race Identity Affinity Group.

Co-sponsored by National Coalition Building Institute (NCBI) Monterey County, California State University Monterey Bay, and Whites for Racial Equity of Monterey County. Special thanks to The California Endowment, Hartnell Foundation, and Center for Nonprofit Excellence for their support.

The first day of the retreat, and the morning of the second day, will be for people of white race identity to do our own work. We will welcome Black, indigenous, Latinx, Asian and Pacific Islander folks and other people of color on the afternoon of the second day for a special panel discussion and dialogue.

Our panelists: Mary Ann Carbone, Mayor of Sand City, Chumash Healer; Luis Xago Juarez, Artistic Director, Baktun 12; Andrea Monroe, Associate Director for Service Learning CSUMB; Pam Motoike, Professor, Service Learning Institute, CSUMB.
