SUMMARY:

The Monterey County Sheriff’s Office (MCSO) Corrections Bureau, has adopted the usage of private armed and unarmed security guards to provide security coverage for inmates while hospitalized. MCSO uses three to four different vendors to provide this service, because vendors do not always have guards available to be deployed when contacted. Usage of several vendors is necessary to ensure that MCSO’s needs are met in a timely and seamless basis and Uretsky Security is one of these vendors. The demand for the services continues to increase as the Jail population shifts to an older aged population, with higher levels of medical acuity and in greater need of hospital services. Inmates must be guarded twenty-four hours a day while in the hospital, so longer length hospitalizations incur larger expenditures for guard services.

These hospitalizations occur on a random, sporadic basis, making usage of an external “on call” labor pool more cost effective. The need for the service is impossible to predict, so historically, overtime was used by MCSO to provide the inpatient security. There is a significant difference in the regular and overtime labor cost per hour for a deputy employee and a security guard, and in response to the Board’s request to reduce overtime, the Office began using the private security firms, and established several contracts for security guard services.
