SUMMARY/DISCUSSION:

Monterey County has been operating a collaborative Wraparound program since 2002. Wraparound Monterey County offers an alternative service provision to reunite children safely with their families, or maintain children with their family safely. The program collaborates between many partners with referrals coming through the Monterey County Department of Social Services and Probation Department.

Wraparound Monterey County is a model for Wraparound that provides an enhanced provision of case management, quality of individual and family services, with a clear cost effective fiscal model. This model includes a Wraparound Care Coordinator Function, a Wraparound Administrative Service Function, and a Wraparound Provider Network. Rebekah Children's Services (RCS) provides the Care Coordination function of Wraparound.

RCS is a non-profit agency that has been providing services to families for over 100 years, and currently operates a high level residential facility in Gilroy, as well as foster home care for children in Monterey County. RCS also operates a successful Wraparound program in South Santa Clara County.
