EXHIBIT A

SCOPE OF WORK/WORK SCHEDULE

Agreement between the Monterey County Water Resources Agency (Agency) and Flow West, Inc. (CONTRACTOR) for work to be performed related to the Monterey County Water Resources Agency Flood Emergency Response Project (Project).

Under this Agreement CONTRACTOR will provide services including staff resources or subcontractors to perform tasks related to the implementation of the Project as outlined below.

Project Description

The project seeks to improve local flood emergency response by developing an emergency management and communications tool allowing rapid viewing of county mapping products to allow flood advanced warning in local communities. Contractor proposes to develop a planning tool for Agency that allows rapid viewing of Salinas River flood inundation mapping based on user input of forecasted flows or stages in the Salinas River. This tool will assist MCWRA in predicting flooding extents given forecasts of river flow and provide advanced warning to impacted communities. This effort will be based on an existing HEC-RAS computer model of the Salinas River originally developed by FlowWest in 2014-2015 and updated in 2023. This model predicts hydraulics of the Salinas River from approximately Bradley at the southern extent to the Monterey Bay at the Northern extent. This model will be further updated and refined, simulations of a wide range of flows will be run, flood inundation maps will be created, along with a software tool that allows these maps to be used to forecast flooding patterns. The specific tasks to be performed are detailed below.

Funding for the Project is provided through a reimbursable grant to Agency from the Department of Water Resources (DWR). In addition to the requirements described in this Exhibit, all deliverables must comply with the terms of the payable grant agreement between DWR and the Agency. A copy of the grant agreement will be provided to CONTRACTOR upon request.

Project Tasks

Task 1: Model Refinement

Contractor will perform a variety of tasks aimed at increasing accuracy of the HEC-RAS model, particularly in the lower valley where model predictions may overestimate flood stages and extents. This could be due to Monterey Bay/Salinas Lagoon tidal boundary conditions, roughness coefficients, or other model inputs. These will be investigated with MCWRA and adjusted in an effort to increase accuracy.

Task 2: Model Simulations and Flood Inundation Mapping

Contractor will perform a suite of simulations of varied flows, including varied tidal conditions in Monterey Bay, to create a library of flood inundation maps. These will likely include flows between 10,000 cfs and 120,000 cfs. We anticipate simulating steady-state flows at intervals between these two bounding flows. Mapped flood inundation outputs will be created for all interval flows. Management of the modeling team and coordination with Agency on model outputs are included in this task.

Task 3: Interface Design

Contractor will meet with Agency to understand their needs and design a user interface that provides the required input from the user and displays flood mapping in desired formats. We anticipate the interface design being a balance between ease of use, complexity and variety of inputs, and available time and budget. Management of development team and coordination with Agency for the interface design are included in this task.

Task 4: Tool Software Development

Contractor will work with Agency to determine the overall application design and software technology stack based on system and IT requirements. We will develop user interface wireframes, the application programming interface (API) and data models, and backend server and API for receiving and processing user queries.

Robust testing will be performed to ensure expected functionality based on agreed upon system requirements, as well as ensuring application performs optimally. We will deploy the frontend user interface, backend, and databased system to an agreed-upon cloud platform (ex: Amazon Web Services, Microsoft Azure, etc.).

Up to two rounds of Agency review and testing and incorporating feedback into the final version of the software are anticipated. Management of the development team and coordination with Agency are included in this task.

Deliverables

CONTRACTOR will provide:

- Flood inundation maps in ESRI shapefile or raster format.
- A technical memorandum documenting outcomes and updates/refinements made to the model.
- Web-based software tool, documentation, and user manual
- Invoices and associated backup documentation in a format approved by Agency
- Quarterly Progress Reports

- Project Completion Report
- Final Financial Report

Any reports, photos, or written materials provided under this agreement may be submitted as part of Agency reporting requirements to state or federal agencies, shared with Agency directors or committees, or shared with the public via web site or other methods.
